ADVISORY BUSINESS

Our Owners and Principals

Our firm was established by Carin R. Amaradio and commenced business in 2010. Ms. Amaradio serves as President. Laurie A. Thompson serves as Vice President. They each have significantly over 25 years of experience in the financial services industry.

As of December 31, 2014, we managed 948 client accounts valued at approximately $127,006,333 on a discretionary basis and 46 client accounts valued at approximately $23,932,115 on a non-discretionary basis for a total of $150,938,448.

General Investment Advisory Services for Individuals

We offer general investment advisory services for individuals. These services include developing investment strategies based on your current and anticipated future financial needs. Our representative will meet with you, gather financial data, and discuss your current financial situation and future financial goals. You need to furnish us with all current information about your financial and investment circumstances. Your information, as well as our recommendations and advice, are confidential.

Based on your information, we will give you our recommendations for various investment products and services. You are always at liberty to follow or disregard our recommendations, in whole or in part. We will advise you, but you must make your own decision whether or not to make any investments.

After developing and recommending your investment strategy, we will periodically contact you for a financial review, typically at least annually. Our financial review will take into consideration the original investment strategy, any new investments, changes in your financial circumstances or goals, and any changes in the tax laws or other general economic conditions that may affect your current investment strategy. If requested, we will provide you with interim financial reviews. Typically, we do not provide periodic reports for our general investment advisory clients.

In most situations, we do not charge a fee for our general investment advisory services for individuals. We do not impose a minimum dollar value of assets or other conditions in order for you to utilize the general investment advisory services for individuals.

General Investment Advisory Services for Businesses

We offer general investment advisory services specifically tailored to the needs and special circumstances of businesses, including their pension and retirement plans. These services are generally provided in conjunction with other professionals and include investment management services for pension and profit sharing plans, 401(k) plans, 403(b) plans, SEP IRA plans, SIMPLE IRA plans, non-qualified deferred compensation plans, asset protection plans, executive salary continuation plans, cross-purchase and stock redemption agreements and employee advisory services.

We also provide general investment advisory services specifically tailored to the needs of a trustee or other fiduciary, including but not limited to, someone meeting the definition of “fiduciary” under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”) or an employee benefit plan subject to ERISA.

We will periodically contact you for a financial review. Interim financial reviews are available upon request. We may provide regular reports regarding your accounts, depending on your needs. We do not impose a minimum dollar value of assets or other conditions for these services.

Portfolio Management Services

We offer portfolio management services through our wrap fee program (the “Program”). We emphasize continuous personal client contact and interaction in providing discretionary portfolio management services. If you participate in the Program, we will charge you a specified fee that covers our advisory services and the fees for executing transactions within your account. We do not offer portfolio management services outside of the Program.

A complete description of the Program and its fees are contained in our Part 2A Appendix, which is the Program Brochure. To request a copy of the Program Brochure, please contact your investment advisory representative or our office at 949-975-7900.

Managing the Managers

We offer investment management services to identify, monitor, and manage unaffiliated third-party investment managers (sometimes referred to as “managing the managers”). We will select and recommend these managers based on a number of factors including, among others, their investment experience, specialty, and historical investment performance. We will discuss the background of these managers with you and determine whether one or more of them may be suitable to manage some or all of your account. We will provide and discuss with you their firm brochures (Form ADV, Part 2A).

Once selected, we will monitor and report to you about the investment performance of these third-party managers and advise you whether they are performing as anticipated in relation to appropriate investment benchmarks, or for any other reason we believe to be important to consider whether to continue their services for you. Our fees for this service vary and will be negotiated on a case by case basis and will be specified in our agreement with you.

Third-party Wrap Fee Programs

In conjunction with managing the managers, we act as a solicitor for, and offer advice about, various wrap fee programs for separately managed accounts sponsored by these third-party, unaffiliated investment advisors. In wrap fee programs, the program sponsor selects the investments, monitors and evaluates investment performance, executes your portfolio transactions without commission charges, and provides custodial services for your assets. All of these services are generally provided for a single fee (or “wrap fee”) which is paid to the program sponsor. These programs are described in separate wrap fee program brochures prepared and distributed by the program sponsor. When we discuss a wrap fee program, we will provide you with a copy of the sponsor’s brochure. Read it carefully and ask us questions about anything you do not understand.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

General Investment Advisory Services for Individuals

These services are usually incidental and in association choosing whether to participate in our Program or any of the third-party wrap fee programs we make available. Therefore, in most situations, we do not charge a separate fee for our general investment advisory services for individuals. We also do not impose a minimum dollar value of assets or other conditions in order for you to utilize the general investment advisory services for individuals.

General Investment Advisory Services for Businesses

Fees for our general investment advisory services for businesses are typically flat-rate fees negotiated on a case-by-case basis after an assessment of the complexities of the services to be rendered. We will formalize our specific fees in our written advisory agreement with you.

Portfolio Management Services – Select Money Management Wrap Fee Program

If you utilize our investment management services under our wrap fee Program, we charge you an inclusive, all-in-one annual fee based upon a percentage of the market value of your assets under our management. Our fee for the Program is called a “wrap fee” because our fee includes all transaction and custodial costs which otherwise would be separately incurred by you. The fee schedule for our Program is negotiable. Generally, the range of fees is between 0.25% and 2.4%, depending on the assets under management, the complexity of your investment requirements, and the nature of your individual circumstance.

A complete description of the Program and its fees are contained in our Part 2A Appendix Wrap Fee Disclosure Brochure. To request a copy, please contact your investment advisory representative or our office at 949-975-7900.

Third-party Wrap Fee Programs

Typically, the program sponsor pays us a portion of the wrap fee that you pay to the sponsor. The amount of our compensation is disclosed in a separate solicitor’s disclosure brochure and is subject to negotiation. Our share of the fee is generally between 0.50% and 1.5%, depending on the assets under management, the complexity of your financial situation, and other fees you will incur from other account relationships with us or our affiliates. You should be aware that the total all-in-one fee charged by the wrap fee program sponsor may in total exceed the cost of separately obtaining portfolio management, brokerage, custody, and other services.

Fee Negotiation – As discussed above, we may negotiate any of our fees, taking into consideration such things as the size of your account, the number of managed portfolios, your relationship with other clients, the length of our relationship with you, the complexity of your personal circumstances, the composition of your portfolio, the complexity of investment strategies, the frequency of desired meetings or special reporting, and other factors that affect our cost of providing services for you. If you, your family, or related persons also have accounts under our management, those accounts may be aggregated for fee calculation purposes. For these reasons, our fees may vary among clients who may be in similar circumstances.

Other investment advisors may charge higher or lower fees for comparable services. We will seek to assure that you are charged a competitive rate according to the size of the account being managed. We reserve the right to modify the fee schedule upon a minimum of thirty (30) days prior written notice to you.

Billing – Our fees will be billed quarterly in arrears and will be automatically withdrawn from your account pursuant to your authorization. In any partial calendar quarter, our fees will be pro-rated based on the number of days your account was under our management. For the purpose of determining our fees, the market value of assets under management shall be measured on the last business day of the immediately preceding billing quarter. We will rely upon the valuations provided by the Custodian without independent verification. In the event that you terminate your account prior to the end of a quarter, our final fee will be pro-rated based on the number of days your account was under our management and will either be deducted from your account in the same manner or an invoice will be sent.

Other Third-party Fees – If you invest in mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and other funds or investments that are managed or administered by third-parties, you will be paying additional fees and charges to others that are in addition to our fees. For example, if you purchase mutual fund shares or a variable insurance product, then you will incur additional fees and charges at the fund level. Each mutual fund’s or variable insurance product’s prospectus or offering memorandum describes these fees and expenses. The additional fund-level fees may include, but are not limited to, a management fee, brokerage and custodian fees, other fund expenses, mortality and expense risk charge or possible distribution fee. If the product imposes a sales charge, you may pay an initial or deferred sales charge.

Except as described under the heading Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations (Item 10 below), we are not affiliated with any other service provider or securities issuer, and we do not receive compensation from any source other than the fees we charge, described above. Before investing in a fund, you should consider the total cost of fund-level fees, our advisory fees, and any transaction-related commissions or charges. You may choose to invest in mutual funds, variable insurance products, or other securities directly, without our services.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

We do not charge performance-based fees. We do not charge fees based on a share of your account’s capital gains or the capital appreciation of assets held in your account.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

We provide portfolio management services to individuals, high net worth individuals, businesses, corporate pension and profit-sharing plans, trusts and estates, charitable institutions, foundations, and endowments.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis

When advising you about your investments or managing your account, we typically use several methods to analyze the securities that we may select for your investment portfolio, including fundamental and technical analysis. We also consider cyclical factors affecting some industries and companies more than others. We also consider factors such as the strength of the company's or mutual fund's management team.

Fundamental analysis is a technique that attempts to determine a security's value by focusing on the economic well-being of a company, as opposed to movements of its market price. In the course of our analysis, we will review a company's financial statements and consider factors including, but not limited to, the company's historical financial condition, prior operating results and trends, its projected revenue growth, its competitive advantages and disadvantages, the anticipated demand for its current and future products or services, the age and nature of its assets, and other factors affecting the company's anticipated results from future operations. Past performance does not assure similar future performance. A company's fundamental value can be adversely affected by many factors unrelated to its actual operating performance.

Technical analysis is another method to evaluate potential investments. Unlike fundamental analysis, technical analysis does not analyze the company's value, but instead analyzes the movement of stock prices in the market, both individually and within an industry or sector of the economy. Technical analysis studies the supply and demand in the market in an attempt to determine historical and future trends. Notwithstanding favorable market price movements, a company's financial condition and other unique factors can adversely affect its value. Technical analysis relies upon stock movements and volume reflected in historical stock charts, often compared with various market benchmarks.

Cyclical factors are relevant to some industries and some company's stocks more than others. A cyclical industry or stock is generally more sensitive to our economy's business cycle. Business cycles are the recurring and fluctuating levels of economic activity that our economy experiences over a period of several years. The five stages of the business cycle are growth (expansion), peak, recession (contraction), trough and recovery. Business cycles vary in frequency, magnitude and duration. The revenue for cyclical industries and stocks are generally higher in periods of economic prosperity and expansion and lower in periods of economic downturn and contraction. Some industries and stocks tend to be counter-cyclical. The revenue for counter-cyclical industries and stocks tend to be negatively correlated to the overall state of the economy. A counter-cyclical stock's price will tend to move in a direction that is opposite to the general economic trend.

We obtain information from a number of sources, both public and by purchase, including financial newspapers and magazines, inspection of corporate activities, research materials prepared by third-parties, corporate rating services, annual reports, prospectuses, reports filed with the SEC, and company press releases. We believe these resources for information are reliable and we regularly depend on these resources for making our investment decisions.

Investment Strategies

We use a variety of investment strategies, depending on your circumstances, financial objectives and needs. We may recommend implementing one or more of the following investment strategies: long-term purchases (held at least a year), short term purchases (held less than a year), trading (held less than 30 days), margin transactions (purchase of a security on credit extended by a securities company), and option writing (selling an option).

We may recommend implementing these strategies using stocks, bonds, mutual funds (held directly or held within variable annuities or life insurance products), municipal securities, options contracts, futures contracts and other types of investments. We often recommend mutual funds of different kinds to promote portfolio diversification within various asset classes, such as industry sectors, domestic/international, or equities/bonds. We may recommend periodic purchases, sales, and exchanges of those mutual fund shares within mutual fund families and between different mutual fund families when there are changes in your needs, market conditions, or economic developments. These recommendations will be implemented through our affiliated broker-dealer Securities Equity Group.

Our portfolio management services are described in our Part 2A Appendix Wrap Fee Disclosure Brochure. To request a copy, please contact your investment advisory representative or our office at 949-975-7900.

Investment Risks and Rewards

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear. Securities, mutual funds, variable products, annuities and other types of investments all bear different types and levels of risk. Upon request, we can discuss the types of investments and investment strategies that we believe may tend to reduce these risks in light of your personal circumstances and financial objectives.

For our portfolio management services, we use a proprietary methodology to determine when to buy/sell mutual funds or other securities for our separately managed accounts. No assurance can be given that any fee-based portfolio management service will result in profitable investments for you or that you will not incur losses. The results of any fee-based portfolio management service cannot be guaranteed and do not take into consideration the timing of your purchase of any particular security, how long you have held the security, your other investments, or the specific tax consequences of the sale or purchase of any securities. All risk of gain or loss in the investments and all expenses of the account(s) are your sole responsibility.

We provide no guarantee regarding the timing of a trade or exchange. While we attempt to execute trades within twenty-four (24) hours of a signal or decision, delays could occur. Processing time delays incurred by the mutual fund companies, insurance companies, brokerage firms, clearing firms and custodians are not our responsibility and in such event we assume no responsibility for any possible losses. In the event that a trade or exchange is missed with material losses resulting, we assume no responsibility for such losses. You will be required to waive any claim to specific, direct or consequential damages and agree that your sole remedy shall be either (1) the refund of the quarterly fee and cancellation of the Agreement or (2) the account(s) will be managed without charge for a term to be determined by us.

While we design investment strategies to provide appropriate investment diversification, some investments have significantly greater risk than others. Obtaining higher rates of return on investments entails accepting higher levels of risk. Our investment strategies seek to balance risks and rewards to achieve investment objectives. Ask questions about investment risks you do not understand. Our representatives will be able to discuss them with you.

We strive to render our best judgment on behalf of our clients. However, we cannot assure you that investments will be profitable or assure that no losses will occur in an investment portfolio. Past performance is an important consideration with respect to any investment or investment advisor but is not a reliable predictor of future performance. We continuously strive to provide outstanding long-term investment performance, but many economic market variables beyond our control can affect the performance of an investment portfolio.

Generally, some of the more common investment-related risks that may affect your investment portfolio include:

- Business risks are associated with a particular company or industry. For example, start-up companies carry greater business risks than established companies. Companies developing new technologies carry greater business risks than manufacturers of well-established or widely used products and services.
- Financial risks are often associated with the ability of a company to raise capital or finance its operations, as well as its ability to repay indebtedness. Highly leveraged companies face greater financial risks than well-capitalized companies do.
- Market risks are related to the effects of economic, political, natural disasters, or other events on the price of a publicly-traded stock, bond, exchange-traded fund, or other securities. This type of risk is typically affected by extrinsic factors that often are not related to a particular company's financial condition, performance, or circumstances. For example, investment speculation can materially affect market prices.

- Liquidity risks are associated with an investor's ability to readily convert a security or other asset into cash. Generally, there is greater liquidity for securities that are publicly traded on stock exchanges or trading facilities that match buy and sell orders. Privately offered securities may be highly illiquid because there is little or no trading or market activity.
- Concentration risks result from a lack of investment diversification, which may be expressed in terms of geography, industry, or economic sector. Mutual funds typically invest in a large number of different companies, typically lowering the risk that occurs when the investment consists of only one or a smaller number of companies.
- Options are complex, derivative securities that involve special risks. Option contracts expire at a stated maturity date and have no further value. Unlike traditional securities, the value of an option and the return from holding an option varies with the value of the underlying security from which it derives and other factors.
- Interest-rate risks are associated with changes to investment prices due to increasing or decreasing interest rates. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline. Generally, the principal value of the bond is received upon the particular bond's maturity, even though you may have purchased it at a premium or a discount from its face value. The impact of interest rate changes is different for bonds held inside of a mutual fund or pooled investment where a particular bond is not held until its maturity.
- Inflationary and deflationary risks are associated with the purchasing power of the dollar, which is affected by broad economic, monetary, governmental policies, and the balance of supply and demand for products and services.
- Reinvestment risks are typically related to fluctuations in the potential interest rate at which future investment proceeds may have to be invested. For example, reinvestment risks may increase during periods of falling interest rates. This risk primarily relates to bonds and other fixed income securities.
- Currency risks are primarily associated with foreign investments. For example, a company's earnings in a foreign country may be affected by fluctuations in the value of the dollar against that foreign currency. Similarly, the investment return of a foreign security may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.

- The use of portfolio models is a cost-effective way to manage a large number of accounts; however, when models are used, the trading that occurs typically does not take into consideration the specific circumstances of an investor such as the investment horizon, holding period, and tax considerations.

Types of Investments

We provide investment advice with respect to a wide range of investments, including no-load mutual funds, indexed funds, exchange traded funds (generically referred to as “funds”), unit investment trusts, stocks, bonds, annuities and other types of investment securities. Advice may also be given to clients with interests in partnerships investing in other business activities such as real estate investment trusts (REITs), and various types of insurance products that may include investment features.

We often offer advice about separately managed accounts by unaffiliated investment advisors, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and variable annuities. Our representatives will answer any questions you may have about these kinds of investments and investment programs.

Mutual Funds of all types charge their shareholders various advisory fees and expenses associated with the establishment and operation of the funds. These fees and expenses are described in each fund’s prospectus. These fees will generally include a management fee, shareholder servicing, other fund expenses, and sometimes a distribution fee. If the fund also imposes sales charges, you may pay an initial or deferred sales charge. These separate mutual fund fees are disclosed in each fund’s current prospectus, which is available from the mutual fund and, upon request, can be provided by us.

Most mutual funds offer several “classes” of their shares which may be purchased by different types of investors or investors with different investment objectives. These are also described in the mutual funds’ prospectuses. Depending on your investable assets, investment objectives, and time horizon, different classes may be more appropriate. We will be able to discuss the available classes of mutual fund shares that may be available, the different purposes for which they may be purchased, and the differences in commissions and charges that are associated with each share class.

Variable Annuities are highly complex financial products offered by insurance companies. Investments in a variable annuity contract are subject to both general market risk and the insurance company’s credit risk. These and other risks are described in the variable annuities’ prospectuses. Variable annuities are regulated under both securities and insurance laws and related rules and regulations. Variable annuities offer various benefits and features which may or may not have value to you depending on your circumstances. Like other types of investments, commissions are paid for the purchase of variable annuities and there may be substantial surrender charges. Commission, surrender charges, and other expenses are disclosed in the fund's prospectus.

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

We have no legal or disciplinary events to disclose. As a registered investment advisor, we are required to disclose to you all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of our firm or the integrity of our management.

OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

We are affiliated by common ownership with Select Portfolio Management, Inc., another investment advisor registered with the SEC. We may refer you to Select Portfolio Management, Inc. for its advisory services. Its services, fees, and additional important information are disclosed in its own firm brochure, which you will receive before engaging in its advisory services.

We are also affiliated by common ownership with broker-dealer, Securities Equity Group, member FINRA and SIPC. Securities Equity Group acts as a fully disclosed introducing broker-dealer for National Financial Services, LLC, who holds client assets and executes transactions for client accounts. Securities Equity Group is not affiliated with National Financial Services, LLC. For more information about Securities Equity Group and its brokerage services, see the discussion under the heading Brokerage Practices.

We are also affiliated by common ownership with SPM Insurance Services, Inc. an independent wholesale insurance agency. We may refer you to SPM Insurance Services, Inc. for insurance services available through its licensed agents.

Carin R. Amaradio owns and manages Select Money Management, Inc., Select Portfolio Management, Inc., Securities Equity Group and SPM Insurance Services, Inc. In addition, Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver, Park Randazzo and Carin Amaradio are all registered representatives of broker-dealer Securities Equity Group and may earn commissions on securities transactions that may be recommended made by them.

Commissions earned on variable insurance products are typically higher and in some instances substantial compared to commissions earned on mutual funds or other securities. Because of this, there exists a potential conflict of interest in the recommendation made by the representative that serves both as an investment advisor representative and a registered representative who earns commission on the products that they are recommending.

You are under no obligation to implement investment and insurance recommendations through Securities Equity Group or through any insurance companies our representatives are affiliated or contracted with. Commissions may be higher or lower at Securities Equity Group than at other broker-dealers. Full disclosure is provided to you prior to executing any transaction. Our firm and our representatives receive no commission if you choose to purchase securities through a broker-dealer other than Securities Equity Group.

Anthony Amaradio, Carin Amaradio, Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver, and Park Randazzo are also investment advisor representatives of affiliate Select Portfolio Management, Inc. and can earn fees on services that they may have recommended.

Due to the relationships between the affiliated companies, potential conflicts of interest may arise with advisor recommendations, we address the potential conflicts by disclosing these relationships and the compensation we may earn when you engage in our services.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

We have adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code”) pursuant to Rule 204A-1 under the Advisers Act describing the standards of business conduct we expect all officers, directors, employees and investment advisory representatives to follow. In summary, the Code prohibits our employees from taking inappropriate advantage of their positions and the access to information concerning the investments or investment intentions of our clients, or their ability to influence such investment intentions, for personal gain or in a manner detrimental to the interests of its clients. Rule 204A-1 makes it unlawful for our employees to engage in conduct which is deceitful, fraudulent, or manipulative, or which involve false or misleading statements in connection with the purchase or sale of securities. The Code acknowledges the general principles that we, along with our employees: (1) owe a fiduciary obligation to its clients; (2) have the duty at all times to place the interests of their clients first; (3) must conduct all personal securities transactions in such a manner as to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or abuse of an individual’s position of trust and responsibility; (4) should not take inappropriate advantage of their positions in relation to client accounts; (5) must comply with the federal securities laws; and (6) must safeguard nonpublic information. The Code also describes certain reporting requirements with which particular individuals associated with or employed by us must comply. We will provide a copy of the Code to any client or prospective client upon request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Our employees may, from time to time, buy or sell securities for their own accounts that are the same as, similar to or the opposite of those that we recommend to you for purchase or sale. Differences can arise due to variations in personal goals, investment horizons, risk tolerance and the timing of purchases and sales. Our Chief Compliance Officer or one of her designees receives and reviews the quarterly brokerage statements belonging to employees for possible conflicts of interest.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Our brokerage practices vary depending on the type of advisory services you select. If you engage in our portfolio management services under our Program, you will direct us to place all securities transactions for your account through our affiliated broker-dealer, Securities Equity Group, and its clearing and custodial broker-dealer, National Financial Services, LLC. Most securities transactions (other than those held within a variable insurance contract) are cleared through National Financial Services. This recommendation is based upon, among other things, the level of service and efficiency that is available by using our affiliated broker-dealer and the administrative convenience associated with using the same individuals in their different capacities.

Securities Equity Group does not hold any customer accounts and is not a market-maker in any security. Securities transactions in our Program will be placed through Securities Equity Group and transaction costs and related charges will be included in our advisory fees. In some transactions handled through directed brokerage arrangements, you could pay significantly higher commissions or charges than might be available for the same transaction in the securities industry using other broker-dealers (i.e. discount brokers). Transactions placed for execution by registered representatives of Securities Equity Group through other broker-dealers would be subject to special supervision under FINRA rules and are generally avoided because of those complexities and related costs.

The conflicts of interest related to directing securities transactions through Securities Equity Group are described under the heading Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Reviews and Reviewers – Reviewers include: Anthony Amaradio, Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver and Park Randazzo. All representatives are expected to provide review services as specified by our firm and the number of accounts assigned to each representative will vary. Many accounts are reviewed periodically by more than one representative. You are contacted periodically for reviews and interim financial reviews are available upon request.

Account Reporting – Statements showing the account value in these investments are prepared and forwarded to our clients on a quarterly basis along with the billing information. You will also receive a confirmation of each purchase and sales transaction that occurs within your account directly from the companies or custodians that hold your investments.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

As described above under the heading Advisory Business, we are a solicitor for, and may recommend that you engage the services of, a third-party investment advisor through a wrap fee program. If you do, we will receive a portion of the wrap fee you pay to the program sponsor. Our solicitor's compensation is described in the sponsor's wrap fee brochure and in a solicitor's disclosure statement. You will not pay the program sponsor any additional fees by virtue of our having made the referral and we do not charge any additional fees with respect to your assets invested through a wrap fee program. We will seek to assure that the fees charged to our clients by program sponsors are competitive and consistent with fees charged to that program sponsor's other clients.

We may engage solicitors to market our services. If you become our client as a result of the solicitor's efforts, you will receive a separate solicitor's disclosure brochure describing our solicitation arrangements, the compensation we pay to the solicitor, and the terms of that relationship. You will also receive a copy of this Brochure. Generally, any such agreement will provide for payment to the solicitor of a percentage of the advisory fees we collect from you. Solicitor compensation will be based upon the advisory fees we collect from you, and may be paid during a specified time period after we begin providing advisory services to you or for the entire time that you remain one of our clients. The solicitor may therefore have a financial incentive to recommend our advisory services over other programs or services. The amount of this compensation may be more than the amount the solicitor would receive if you participated in other programs or paid separately for investment advice, brokerage and other services. Generally, we would not charge clients introduced by such solicitors any higher advisory fee as a result of our obligation to pay for such solicitation services.

CUSTODY

While we do not have physical custody of the assets held in your account, if you engage our investment management services, then we will have authority to bill your custodian for our fees and, upon billing, to receive our fees by deducting them directly from your account as described under the heading Fees and Compensation. This fee-deduction authority gives us the ability to obtain money from your account and so is deemed to constitute custody of your account assets.

You should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker-dealer, bank, mutual fund transfer agent, or other qualified custodian you select to hold your account assets. We urge you to carefully review your custodian's periodic statements and to compare those records with the reports that we periodically provide to you. Our reports are not intended to replace or supersede your custodian's periodic statements and may vary based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies, as noted under the heading Review of Accounts.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

As explained under the heading Advisory Business, within our Program, you have granted us limited discretionary authority over your account, which includes authority to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold for your benefit and risk. Our discretion will be exercised in accordance with your stated investment objectives. You may provide us with written investment guidelines or restrictions to limit our discretionary authority or we may develop an investment policy statement or similar document with you.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Many of the companies who issue the securities held in your investment account will solicit proxies for the election of directors and voting on questions presented to shareholders at annual or special meetings. We do not vote proxies on your behalf. You are responsible for voting proxies. Proxy solicitation materials will be forwarded directly to you by your account custodian. If you have any questions about a particular proxy voting matter, please do not hesitate to ask.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

We have no financial liabilities, obligations, or commitment that impairs our ability to meet our contractual and fiduciary commitments to you. We have not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
